DULLES TO RESIGN

STATINTL

DAVID BRINKLEY WAS SEEN ON THE TV SCREEN.

BRINKLEY: "Tonight we are told that Allen Dulles, the Director of the CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY, will resign within the next few weeks, giving as his reasons his age and his health.

"He is 68. He has run the CIA since 1953 through good times and bad, though lately its times have been more bad than otherwise.

"Just after the Cuban invasion flopped, the President asked General Maxwell Taylor and others to investigate everyone involved, including the CIA. Taylor's report went to the President last week.

"In addition to Dulles' retirement, it is possible, though there is nothing firm on this yet, it is possible there will be other changes in the CIA, both in personnel and in policy."
